

The VAMPIRE Presidency of Count B.Obama

Barry Obama, while not the first or greatest vampire President, (-the four-term FDR still holds that title) is being a vampire President in a different way. He's going about it in a diametrically opposite manner than how the government under FDR presided over the nation.

Back then, instead of a Robin Hood government acquiring by force the immorally acquired wealth of the overly rapacious Kings of Commerce and returning it to the people, it was instead vampirically doing the same sort of rapacious wealth grab as England's King during Robin Hood's era, against those in higher income brackets, and using that wealth to increase the breadth and power of big central government.

But, unlike the old-school mobsters who had rules and values and respect for their history, the vampire descendant of the grandfather of government vampires has no respect for the values, attitudes and legacy of his spiritual forefather.

Imperial FDR was someone with no respect for our American Constitution, but he did have respect for how the world actually functioned [though blind to how an economy would actually respond to massive government intervention].

He knew two things were true just as sure as he lived and breathed, and they were that unions had no place in the government of the people of the United States since that would compromise the government's authority and fiscal responsibility in unacceptable ways; and secondly, that the wealth of the nation didn't come from service jobs, government jobs, government regulation, or high taxes.

He knew that it came from natural resources, affordable and abundant energy supplies, hard and dedicated work, ingenuity, entrepreneurship, personal drive & dreams, and the ability to fulfill them thanks to the government not getting in the way.

Today's Robin Hood vampire President knows only half of those facts, and the ones he doesn't know are the reason he follows anti-private sector policies that are sucking the blood out of the U.S. economy.

Acting as the guardian of the inheritance of the young, he is stealing from the account over which he should be exercising a firm fiduciary responsibility, a philosophy he boldly espoused as a presidential candidate. But once elected, instead of sticking to his responsible values, he's plundering relentlessly the wealth of the future and giving it away at an astonishing rate, even though it has not yet even been made real.

He's also following the same pattern with the wealth of today's generation by taking it from those who earned it and giving it to those who did not earn it, and did not even care to try. That's Robin Hood in reverse.

He does that because he's married to an ideology that he's infected with. In fact, it's more like a religion to him. It's not just in his head but is in his heart. He is fully infected with it. It's the vampiric religiosity known as "social justice", and it's in his blood and marrow.

It's who he is, and he isn't ashamed of that fact because it has a moral basis that holds some high ground. Justice is an important thing in this life. Social justice is a defensible ideology. It has a place in this world. But the problem is that it has no place in the United States Constitution and the government founded on it.

But the "Social Justice" disease controls how his mind works, -just as the infection from vampire blood in bitten humans has a strong impact on how their minds function.

The consequence of that infection is that he can't think of the Constitution, or financially successful Americans, with an objective mind, -anymore than a vampire can think of a potential meal objectively.

The Constitution becomes not a vital compass, guidebook and pathway but a roadblock instead. How do you treat roadblocks? You go around them or over them. You don't stop for them even though they were placed there by the supreme authorities of past generations for your own protection.

The soul infected with a vampire mind-set feels a sense of destiny, an ability to accomplish great things. It feels immortal, more powerful and intelligent than those who went before and blazed the pathway through the wilderness. They, after all, weren't modern. They weren't interested in the high, moral, vampire agenda, but in individual liberty, the free functioning of the economy and the rule of law.

In the vampire mind-set, those three things are secondary to social justice. It must be achieved no matter what, including forcing “energy prices to necessarily skyrocket”.

Why has Obama accomplished nothing for the American economy? Because it has never been at the top of his priority list. Building a massive federal bureaucracy dedicated to social justice, socialized medicine, and an authoritarian anti-carbon dictatorship are first and foremost. Everything else is further down the list.

The vampire mind-set isn't interested in making people healthy, or healthier. It's interested in sucking the blood from potential blood donors and giving it to those who have less blood, [or have the willingness to give back to his reelection campaign].

That is a moral goal. But it has nothing to do with the Constitution or the rule of law under it. It has nothing to do with the constitutional authority of the federal government.

The states have the authority to do anything they want in regard to social justice, -as long as it doesn't violate their state Constitution or the federal Constitution. But the powers of the central government are spelled out and limited. All other authority is left to the states or the people. (Tenth Amendment)

But the vampire's mind-set is unwilling to be limited by the Constitution, the amendment process, or the rule of law. And so the result is what we've seen so far from his blood-sucking administration.

Count B.Obama is Vampiric in another way, namely, his citizenship. That's true in two senses. One is that he appears and acts just like other humans, but he has a secret, -one that he can't share with anyone because it would greatly alter his standing in the human world, -meaning his standing in the American government, being the chief executive and all.

He can't admit to anyone that he is not a natural born human [American] because his father was not human [American] but was a vampire instead [a foreigner]. If the humans knew that he was half vampire, they would toss him out of his position as their supreme leader because that position was expressly placed off-limits to all vampires and vampire children.

The second sense in which his vampire citizenship impacts his standing is in the nature of his nature. The Law of Ascension to the top leadership position of the humans requires that a human be a pure-blood natural human and not a mix-blood human.

A mixed-blood human is neither a natural human nor a natural vampire because such a one had neither a mother & father that were both human nor ones that were both vampires. Hence the mixed-blood human-vampire hybrid is not a natural member of either group, but is a half-member of both. Such a combination is unnatural, and hence such a person could not legitimately serve as the leader of the humans nor the vampires.

Mr. Spock, half human, half Vulcan, knows what that status is like, -being as he was not a natural member of the human world nor the Vulcan world. He too is “a blood hybrid”.

While Count B.Obama is not a blood vampire, nor an alien, he is truly a political vampire and a half alien. Such a creature has no constitutional right to be usurping the office of the American President. It is reserved for “No person, except a natural born citizen”, which he emphatically is not.

He has always surrounded himself with fellow vampires of the Marxist religiology sect. Their goal is to see every free individual in the land fall under their supreme authority and bow to their government's ever growing power.

That is happening more and more with every passing day. The trend is very strongly in that direction and has never gone in the opposite direction.

If a dramatic change is not effected by the results of the next election, then we will truly be irreversibly on the fast track to becoming a...

VAMPIRE NATION. In such a world, anything goes. There will be few limitations left blocking government intrusion into most aspects of one's life.